WELCOME

WELCOME TO THE 2019 LOS ALTOS ARTS & WINE FESTIVAL IN BEAUTIFUL DOWNTOWN LOS ALTOS!
PRESENTED BY THE LOS ALTOS VILLAGE ASSOCIATION (LAVA) - A 501(C) 6 NOT FOR PROFIT ORGANIZATION - THE FESTIVAL RETURNS FOR THE 40TH YEAR ON JULY 13 AND 14, OFFERING EXCEPTIONAL LOCAL WINES, STUNNING WORKS OF ART, AND FOOD AND FUN FOR THE WHOLE FAMILY.

The mission of the Los Altos Village Association is to promote Downtown Los Altos as a great place to shop, dine, explore and discover. The organization’s membership is comprised of downtown business and property owners – and area residents - who work together to plan events, promotions and advertising programs. LAVA is also instrumental in the beautification efforts in downtown, including the design and installation of colorful light post banners, beautiful flowers throughout Main and State Streets, and the addition of year-round tree lighting, all making Downtown Los Altos a truly magical place.

Founded in the early 1960’s, when new regional shopping centers drew customers away from downtowns across the nation, LAVA looked to win back patrons to Downtown Los Altos with an Easter Egg Hunt hosted by member businesses. That very first association event continues today, joined by other events created to show off the unique charm of our downtown.

To continue the tradition of high-level events and promotions, the Los Altos Village Association has established the Los Altos Village Fund through the Los Altos Community Foundation. Anyone can contribute to the fund, and contributions are tax deductible. Those wishing to contribute can donate online at www.downtownlosaltos.org, visit www.LACF.org and make a payment via PayPal, or call the LAVA office at (650) 949-5282 for more information.

We hope you will explore the many fine downtown businesses while you visit the 2019 Arts and Wine Festival. The charm and uniqueness of the area are a result of many hours and efforts on the part of the City of Los Altos, the downtown business community and our residents. We take great pride in our shops, restaurants, service businesses and boutiques – and, we hope you will too! Make sure to follow Downtown Los Altos on Facebook (DowntownLosAltos) and Instagram (@DTLosAltos) to keep up to date on events and happenings. Visit our website at www.DowntownLosAltos.org for more information and to join our mailing list. See you at the festival!

Scott Hunter
Executive Director, Los Altos Village Association
The Los Altos Arts & Wine Festival celebrates its 40th anniversary this year.

What began in 1979 as a much smaller version of the current event, the festival has now grown to include more than 300 craft and arts booths, two food courts, three stages featuring live music and entertainment, and a free dance concert, which this year features Take 2 performing 6-8 p.m. Saturday on the Main Stage in Central Plaza.

Presented by the Los Altos Village Association (LAVA), a not-for-profit organization, the festival raises funds for events and programs that promote downtown Los Altos as a desirable place to shop, dine and explore. Additionally, festival funds support LAVA’s downtown beautification efforts, including decorative plantings, colorful banners and twinkle lights that fill more than 250 trees along Main and State streets and in the adjacent parking plazas.

crucial to the success of the event, according to LA VA Executive Director Scott Hunter, who particularly praised the generosity of Kidzone sponsors Bumble restaurant and Area 151 arcade. Festivalgoers may visit the other event supporters on Sponsors Row, located at Main and State streets, adjacent to Veterans Community Plaza.

The festival also receives support from an array of community groups and organizations, including the Boy Scouts and Girls Scouts, the Service League of Boys, the Los Altos Chamber of Commerce, the Los Altos Kiwanis Club and the Rotary Club of Los Altos. GreenTown Los Altos will again staff the free Bike and Stroller Valet Parking area off Third Street.

The Kidzone this year moves to the center of the festival, offering more space for entertainment, games and crafts. Lori and RJ host the interactive entertainment – aimed to get kids up and dancing – on the Family Fun Stage. The Kidzone is located off State Street near the Community Stage. Note that the festival carnival, featuring rides and the Superslide, remains in Parking Plaza 3, off San Antonio Road.

Since 2006, Pacific Fine Arts of Pine Grove has taken the lead on selecting artisans and craftspeople for the festival. Dana and Troy Hale-Mounier, owners of Pacific Fine Arts, work with the LA VA Arts & Wine Committee to select the artists. Look for a wide variety of artwork, jewelry and crafts this weekend.

In addition to the LAVA-sponsored concert Saturday evening, bands perform throughout the day on both the Main Stage and the Community Stage. There is room to dance and sit near the stages to eat and drink while enjoying the music.

To drink wine and/or beer, purchase glassware at one of the four glass booths; please wear the provided proof-of-drinking-age wristband while at the festival. Those who leave but plan to return later that day or the next are asked to retain their wristband and bring the festival glassware back; alcohol is only served in authentic festival glassware. Seven boutique wineries have representatives pouring their wines at booths. Beer aficionados can seek out the beer booth located at Main and Third streets, where 21st Amendment, Firestone, Santa Clara Valley Brewing Co. and other California breweries are pouring their brews.

Those who drive to the festival are encouraged to park at Los Altos High School at 201 Almond Ave. and take the free shuttle downtown. Drop off and pick up is on Edith Avenue next to the shady Village Park.

The festival is scheduled 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday and Sunday. The event is family friendly, but organizers ask that visitors leave their pets at home.

For more information on LAVA and the festival, call 949-5282 or visit downtownlosaltos.org.
Festival filled with food, beverages

Special to the Town Crier

Food and drink choices abound at the Los Altos Arts & Wine Festival, where new gourmet items and craft beers have been added this year.

The festival’s two food courts feature more than two dozen food vendors, serving up Indian dishes, Brazilian barbecue, Chinese egg rolls, Philly steak sandwiches, fruit smoothies and more.

Returning favorites include the Rotary Club of Los Altos’ long-standing booth offering Chef Chu’s Chinese chicken salad; India Gourmet dishing out vegan and vegetarian choices, as well as lamb and veggie wraps, and rice bowls; Aroma Concessions, selling fried calamari, barbecued oysters and crab cakes; Gourmet Faire providing...
FOOD & DRINKS

Crab rolls and crab fries; Lockeford Meat and Sausage grilling its foot-long sausages on a roll; Stick-N-Grill serving barbecue chicken on a stick and barbecue chicken salad; Koko Korean Teriyaki offering teriyaki chicken skewers, vegetable lo mein and fried rice; California Corn Roast roasting corn on a stick; and B Foods International selling gyros, Philly steak sandwiches and falafel.

Festival standards such as corn dogs and garlic fries are available as well.

In addition, look out for TV cameras that may be rolling at the booth run by Chicken and the Farm – known for its chicken wings and barnyard bowls – which will be profiled on Food Network’s “Carnival Eats.”

Pre-packaged specialty foods to take home can be found along the Third Street food court. Booths include Nan’s Gourmet Foods (offering aged and infused balsamic vinegars, olive oils, grilling sauces and handcrafted pasta), Nousa’s Cakes & Sweets (baklava, butter cookies and chocolate cookie cake), Makse Bar (giant gluten-free rice treats) and Nature’s Candy Co. (flavored nuts).

Those looking for cool drinks in the heat can find hand-shaken lemonade, Hawaiian shave ice and fruit smoothies from Barrett’s Lemonade, Hawaiian Shave Ice and Fruit Frizz, respectively. Dippin’ Dots, Olde Tyme Kettle Korn and Shampa’s Pies provide other sweet treats.

The craft beer tent is located at Main and Third streets. It features beer from Santa Clara Valley Brewing Co., 21st Amendment and Firestone, along with a pineapple hard cider from ACE. Beer stations throughout the rest of the festival are pouring Firestone 805, Lagunitas, Modelo and Blue Moon.

The food courts are located along Second and Third streets between Main and State streets. There are plenty of tables and chairs with umbrellas for shade adjacent to each food area.

For more information, call LAVA at 949-5282 or visit downtownlosaltos.org.
Special to the Town Crier

For many years, the Los Altos Arts & Wine Festival has been one of the few Bay Area events featuring wines from local wineries – and this year is no different.

The seven vintners at this year’s festival are all returning favorites, including downtown Los Altos’ own Byington Vineyard & Winery.

Bass Note Sangria

Bass Note produces a line of sangrias made with California wine that is blended with fresh fruit juice, cane sugar, herbs and/or spices.

Representatives from Bass Note Sangria are pouring their new Raspberry Hibiscus – along with Blackberry Sage, Cherry Lime Almond and Peach Tarragon sangrias – and their Cali Press 2017 Rosé. Look for Bass Note Sangria in Plaza 6, near the corner of State and Fourth streets.
For more information on Bass Note Sangria, visit bassnotesangria.com.

Byington Vineyard & Winery

Situated in the Santa Cruz Mountains, Byington Vineyard & Winery sits on 95 mountainous acres surrounded by redwood forests with a view to the Monterey Bay. It produces award-winning Pinot Noir, Cabernet Sauvignon and Chardonnay wines and other varietals.

Byington’s small production wines come from 8 acres of Byington Estate Pinot Noir in the Santa Cruz Mountains, as well as 36 acres of Tin Cross Vineyards Cabernet Sauvignon, Chardonnay, Cabernet Franc, Merlot and Petit Verdot from Alexander Valley.

Byington representatives are pouring a 2014 Chardonnay and a 2014 Blend 122, both from their Tin Cross Vineyards. Look for their booth at Main and Second streets.
For more information on Byington Vineyard and Winery, visit byington.com.

Domenico Winery

Domenico Winery, named by Dominick and Gloria Chirichillo as a reflection of the commitment to their Italian heritage, returns to the festival for the fifth year.
The history of the winery is rooted in family. Dominick’s nonno (grandfather), Domenico Giovinazzo, introduced him to the family’s wine-making traditions in 1955 by showing the youngster the wine press in the basement of their New York home. A generational love of handcrafting wine soon developed.

Dominick later moved to California, where he could choose his grapes from vineyards in Napa Valley, Sonoma’s Central Coast, Alexander Valley, Russian River Valley, Amador County and the Lodi District. He is a member of the Santa Cruz Mountains Winegrowers Association, where he sources Chardonnay and Pinot Noir grapes.

Domenico Winery representatives are pouring their new Rosé, along with their Pinot Grigio, Mambo Italiano and GPSM at their booth at Main and Second streets.

For more information on Domenico Winery, visit DomenicoWinery.com.

Fernwood Cellars

Fernwood Cellars returns to the festival for the 10th year. The Gilroy-based winery makes a variety of estate wines that reflect the vineyard’s unusual microclimate, while showcasing the inherent characteristics of each variety. Second-generation winemaker Matt Oetinger founded Fernwood Cellars in 1999.

The vineyard lies on property the Oetingers have occupied for six generations, stretching back to 1863 when Matt’s great-grandfather, Charles, built the family’s first home there. Matt was introduced to winemaking by his father, Lew, owner of Hummingbird Hill Vineyards.

At its booth near the corner of State and Third streets, Fernwood Cellars representatives are pouring a 2017 Chardonnay, a 2014 Sidecut and a 2015 Cabernet Sauvignon.

For more information on Fernwood Cellars, visit fernwoodcellars.com.

Thomas Fogarty Winery

The story of Thomas Fogarty Winery is an example of the innovation and entrepreneurship that has existed for decades in Silicon Valley. In the early 1970s, Dr. Thomas Fogarty, who was working as a cardiovascular surgeon and inventor, first tried at-home winemaking in a cabin high above Palo Alto. He planted his first grapes in 1978 on what is now home to the 325-acre Thomas Fogarty Winery and Vineyards.

At their festival location near the corner of Main and State streets, Thomas Fogarty Winery representatives are pouring their Skyline Artisan White, Skyline Artisan Red and Skyline Artisan Rosé.

For more information on Thomas Fogarty Winery, visit fogartywinery.com.

Naumann Vineyards

Naumann Vineyards returns to the festival for the 13th year. The Cupertino-based winery’s vineyard is located on Montebello Road, 2,000 feet above the Silicon Valley floor. All work in the vineyard is performed by hand, with the goal of producing low-yield, high-quality fruit.

Vintner Don Naumann’s most successful wine may be his Tre Rosso Cali, which won a Silver Medal in the SF Chronicle Wine Competition and Gold Medal in The Finger Lakes International Wine Competition.

In addition to the Tre Rosso Cali, Naumann Vineyards representatives are pouring a Merlot, a Rosé of Merlot and a Chardonnay at their booth at Main and Third streets.

For more information on Naumann Vineyards, visit naumannvineyards.com.

Page Mill Winery has participated in the festival annually since its inception in 1979 – just three years after Dick and Ome Stark founded the winery in the large cellar under their home in Los Altos Hills.

For 28 years, the winery was located on Page Mill Road, just a short drive from downtown Los Altos. The winery has since moved to Livermore, and its wines are available throughout the Bay Area.

Look for Page Mill Winery representatives in their booth at Main and Third streets, where they are pouring a Chardonnay and a GPS (Rhone blend).

For more information on Page Mill Winery, visit pagemillwinery.com.
Kidzone makes its move to the center of festival

Special to the Town Crier

The Kidzone is the centerpiece of this year’s Los Altos Arts & Wine Festival, as it moves from the outside portion to the middle of the annual event. It is situated in Parking Plaza 6, near the Third Street food vendors, State Street artists, Sponsors Row and the Community Stage.

The Kidzone features hands-on art activities, face painting, henna tattoos and games for the young and young at heart. There is also an Art Wall for young artists to display their work for the festival crowd.

Sponsored by downtown Los Altos’ Bumble restaurant and Area 151 arcade, the Kidzone is anchored by the Family Fun Stage. Energetic duo Lori and RJ host stage shows throughout both days of the festival.

Kids and parents alike often enjoy painting at the festival.
Hula-hooping, games and the prize wheel begin at 11 a.m., prior to the first performance.

Saturday officially kicks off at 11:30 a.m. with Studio Kicks Palo Alto and its “Dragon Dance for Good Luck.”

The Puppet Company takes the stage at 12:15 and 3 p.m. to perform “The Puppet Circus,” featuring clowns, a tightrope-walking bear, elephants, lions and a circus parade.

At 1 p.m., the Los Altos youth of the Box Cube/The Electric Pythons robotics team (comprising local eighth- and ninth-graders) show off their latest creations.

At 1:30 and 3:30 p.m., magician Gerald Joseph performs magic with humor and audience participation.

At 2:15 p.m., Daniel Ordonez, runner-up on “The Voice for Kids” in Spanish, belts out songs in Spanish and English.

Lori & RJ’s brand of fun and funky music humor rounds out Saturday’s entertainment with “Kids Music with a Groove” at 4:15 p.m.

Both kids and parents enjoy many of the rides at the festival. Although the Kidzone has moved, the rides remain in Parking Plaza 3.

Sunday’s slate of entertainment starts with Studio Kicks of Palo Alto at 11:30 a.m., followed by the comedic magic of Gerald Joseph at 12:15 p.m., Box Cube/The

The Puppet Company returns to the festival’s Kidzone, with performances scheduled both days.

Electric Pythons at 1 p.m., Jump for Joy Music with Wiley and Debbie Rankin at 1:30 p.m., the Puppet Company’s modern twist on “Jack & the Beanstalk” at 2:15 p.m. and singer Daniel Ordonez at 2:45 p.m. Magician Gerald Joseph returns at 3:15 p.m., then Jump for Joy Music’s encore show is at 4 p.m. and Puppet Company’s repeat performance is at 4:30 p.m.

Throughout both days, audience participants have the opportunity to win unlimited ride tickets to the Santa Cruz Beach Boardwalk, along with other prizes.

For those looking to zip down the 100-foot Superslide on a burlap sack or experience the Fun House and other amusements – including an array of rides and games – visit the Festival Carnival on Third Street, directly off San Antonio Road.

Feng’s flair for art leads to designer’s first original patterns

By Emily Quiles
Town Crier Editorial Intern

Clothing designer Guo Feng, owner of 3 Potato in downtown Los Altos, showcases her first original patterns at this year’s Los Altos Arts & Wine Festival.

This marks Feng’s third year at the festival, a place where she essentially launched her storefront business a year ago. She spotted an empty storefront at 358 State St. while working the festival and a month later signed a lease for the space.

she integrated the media into her newest clothing line.

“It’s a big advantage for us,” Feng said, referring to 3 Potato. “We can now paint whatever on the fabric and print for people to wear.”

Feng now has found a way to let her creative freedom flow – similar to her clothing.

Her loose-fitted trousers and tops are designed to be practical for the everyday-busy woman, Feng said. She uses earth tones to easily complement pieces. An added bonus: Feng uses wrinkle-free materials, so no iron is necessary.

“Time is very limited,” she said. “I want to help save time in the morning when choosing what to wear and to be convenient.”

Feng added that she has received positive feedback on her clothing for its functionality and uniqueness.

“When people buy it, I feel so happy,” she said. “With clothing, you can see their immediate reaction.”

THANK YOU

A special thank you to those members of the Los Altos Village Association, festival production staff and the Los Altos community who have worked tirelessly throughout the year to help make the 40th version of the Los Altos Arts & Wine Festival an enjoyable event for patrons and participants alike:

Abby Ahrens  Dana Hale-Mounier  Mark Rogge
Rita Armstrong  Scott Hunter  Sherry Scott
Ellen Biolsi  Kathy Lera  Millie Talledo
Belinda Chung  Denise Malacre  Fran Vella
Joe Fusco  Beth Maxwell-Lyons  Melany Thompson-Zaro
Shannon Geary  Nina Nesmith  Read Zaro

A SPECIAL THANK YOU...

is extended to the Los Altos City Council and Los Altos city staff members for their support and sponsorship of our event. We could not host the festival without the devotion of the Los Altos Police Department, whose members spend hours planning a safe and enjoyable event for all. We appreciate the expertise of our Police Chief Andy Galea and Sergeant Liz Checke, and are particularly grateful to the officers who give up their weekends to ensure the safety of our patrons and vendors.

Additional thanks go out to our friends at Los Altos Community Investments, Robert Hindman and Victoria Irvine-Brown, for supporting the festival and Downtown Los Altos, and for providing a home for the event warehouse.

Many, many thanks go out to our volunteers! Without them, nearly 300 strong, we would not be able to host this festival. Many of our volunteers return year after year and mentor new volunteers. GreenTown Los Altos will again host the free bike and stroller valet parking! We appreciate the hard work of students, Scouts and community organizations from throughout Los Altos who volunteer every year. Of course, a huge thank you to the Board of Directors of the Los Altos Village Association, who offer guidance to the organization throughout the year.

We also extend a thank you to our Downtown business owners who graciously support the festival despite the disruption to normal weekend business. We appreciate them and ask that you support them during the festival and all year long. Shop! Dine! Explore! Discover! Downtown Los Altos!

For a complete list of our member businesses and to learn more about the Los Altos Village Association, please visit our Web site at www.DowntownLosAltos.org.

solo, as a duo with Chris Beveridge and in his own band of three, the RSB (Randy Sauro Band). He plays music from a diverse set of genres, including rock, R&B, funk, reggae and Motown.

For more information on Randy Sauro, visit randysauromusic.com.

Sunday

Deb Thacker, noon to 1:30 p.m.

Deb Thacker is a performer and singer-songwriter from the Bay Area influenced both by her mom’s collection of standards and by her dad’s love for country. She has previously performed at festivals, weddings and private events.

For more information on Thacker, visit debmusic.com.

Blue House, 2-3:30 p.m.

San Jose-based Blue House combines a rocker’s attitude with a folk acoustic/electric approach. Blue House, featuring Marlies de Veer, Amy Beasly and Brian Loud, has shared the bill with a variety of performers, ranging from Phish to k.d. lang, and the band has played in all kinds of venues, from concert halls to coffee houses.

For more information on Blue House, visit bluehouseband.com.

Michelle Lambert, 4-6 p.m.

Returning to the festival, Michelle Lambert is an indie-pop artist and singer-songwriter who plays the electro-acoustic violin, wielding it in classic-rock goddess mode. Formerly based in Nashville and now in California, Lambert performs original music focused on emotion and energy, influenced by Ed Sheeran, Adele, Amy Winehouse and Red Hot Chili Peppers.

Jazz ConneXion brings its groove to the festival

By Angie Wang
Town Crier Editorial Intern

Los Altos-based Jazz ConneXion is set to perform at the Los Altos Arts & Wine Festival for the first time, taking over the Community Plaza Stage 10-11:30 a.m. Saturday.

The group was established 19 years ago, and since then, Dale Nesbitt, John Sylvester and a few other musicians have provided live music for restaurants and events across the Bay Area.

“We play jazz right out of the Great American Songbook,” Nesbitt said.

“Vocal, instrumental. ... I think we’re pretty good at what we do, which is not rock ‘n’ roll, it’s not rap – it’s just right straight solid American music.”

Nesbitt added that not enough Americans seek out music that’s outside the mainstream, and his band aims to make less ubiquitous jazz tunes more accessible.

“You come to our concert, you’ll have fun,” he said. “We play a lot of songs that people don’t know. Old songs. Do you know songs from the ’30s? When you hear them, you’ll go, ‘That’s terrific!’”

While attendees may not find comfort in a familiar melody, Nesbitt hopes they feel the group’s consistently strong rhythm and pace throughout each song. This “groove” makes music a humanizing concept, according to Nesbitt.

“The groove is like leprosy – when you’re out of the groove, you’re sick, you’re scratching,” he said. “Oh, God, it’s horrible. When you’re in the groove, ah … you’re relaxed.”

Nesbitt noted that the groove is also present when he solves math problems; he is an economics professor at Stanford University. When he has an unsolved math problem at hand, the Los Altos Hills resident feels that he is out of the groove. When he elucidates the messiness and sees the logic, he is in the groove.

It typically requires discipline to adhere to a rigid metronome-like beat – in music, in math or even just in life – but the possibilities that a person has to fill the silence in between the ticks appear endless. Nesbitt encourages festival visitors to reflect on this pervasive relationship in the human experience, that between a strict rhythm and limitless creativity, while Jazz ConneXion performs.

“You’re so deep in the groove that you can’t see over the edge, right down in the bottom of the ditch at the same pace with the same harmonic ideas,” he said. “Because when we are in the rhythmical sync, there’s a human collaboration that’s ridiculous. You can feel it.”

FESTIVAL TIPS

Tips for enjoying this weekend’s festival

Town Crier Report

Following are some quick tips to help make this weekend’s 40th annual Los Altos Arts & Wine Festival more enjoyable.

Restrooms

Festival organizers provide more than 40 portable restrooms for the weekend, located on the numbered streets (First, Second, etc.) near the entrances to the parking plazas in downtown Los Altos. Seven hand-washing and sanitizing stations are located near the portable restrooms. Please refrain from asking to use merchants’ bathrooms.

Pets

Heat, small children, strollers and pets

While it may be tempting to bring your dog to the festival, event organizers ask people to leave their pets at home.

are not a good mix. Festival organizers request that attendees leave their pets at home.

Shuttle bus and parking
Parking spots in and around downtown Los Altos fill up quickly during the festival, so many attendees opt to skip the hassle and park their cars at Los Altos High School, 201 Almond Ave., less than a mile away. Free shuttles ferry festival attendees continually – approximately every 15 minutes – between the Los Altos High parking lot and the drop-off spot on Edith Avenue near San Antonio Road, next to Village Park.

Bicycles
Every year, hundreds of festivalgoers leave their cars at home and ride bicycles to the festival and park them at the Bike and Stroller Valet Parking area for free. Volunteers from GreenTown Los Altos guard the corral to ensure that bicycles remain safe. Strollers may be parked there as well. The bike/stroller corral is located in the South Plaza area, just off Third Street.

Street closures
The downtown Los Altos triangle is scheduled to close to all street traffic beginning 5 p.m. Friday and will not reopen until 10 p.m. Sunday. The closures include Main and State streets, Central Plaza, and Second and Third streets between Main and State streets.

For more information, call the Los Altos Village Association at 949-3282 or visit downtownlosaltos.org.
Volunteers from GreenTown Los Altos will continue their tradition of parking bikes and strollers for free.

For the ninth consecutive year, GreenTown Los Altos is providing complimentary valet parking for those who ride bicycles or bring strollers to the Los Altos Arts & Wine Festival.

GreenTown volunteers use a security system to verify ownership and guard bicycles and strollers – no locks required. The system is similar to a coat check for bikes and strollers.

The Bike and Stroller Valet Parking area is located in the South Plaza, just off Third Street, behind the post office on Main Street. The area is staffed 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

GreenTown is a group of volunteers in Los Altos and Los Altos Hills whose mission is to educate and inspire residents to take action to make the community more environmentally healthy and vibrant today and for future generations. The organization has four primary focuses: water conservation and stewardship; community waste reduction; renewable energy and energy efficiency; and encouraging people to walk, bike and carpool.

Over the 40 years of its existence, the Los Altos Arts & Wine Festival has grown from a small summer festival into one of the largest on the Peninsula. It began in 1979 when a group of merchants and business owners in downtown Los Altos decided that the city needed a popular summer festival to introduce people to the downtown area.

Organizers staged the first festival in the city’s South Parking Plaza in July 1980. The inaugural event drew 150 exhibitors and 30,000 attendees.

By 1983, Main and State streets were closed to accommodate the festival. By 1985, the number of exhibitors had doubled. In 1993, festival attendance topped 100,000, and since 1997 it has attracted more than 150,000 to downtown Los Altos each summer.

Today, the festival encompasses all of downtown Los Altos. Of the approximately 1,000 artists and artisans who apply each year, fewer than 400 meet the exacting criteria for selection and the opportunity to showcase their work.

The festival has ranked among the top 75 summer festivals in the nation for its quality and variety of exhibitors. Bay Area Parent Magazine has rated the annual event “Best of the Best.”

The more than 400 volunteers who keep the event running in an efficient and orderly manner heavily influence the festival’s character. Volunteers range from Fortune 500 executives to local teens and grandparents, giving the...
FESTIVAL HISTORY

The Los Altos Arts & Wine Festival attracts an array of artists from the Bay Area and beyond.

festival a friendly, multigenerational, community-oriented flavor. Organizers strive to personalize the festival and make it a celebration where friends and family can bond.

The Linden Tree Books Kids Stage, launched in the early 1990s, has expanded into the popular Kidzone, a separate venue featuring entertainment geared exclusively to children.

For the past 20 years, the festival has included an array of international foods and a full two-day program of free music and entertainment. Festival organizers have added a free Bike and Stroller Valet Parking area and shuttles between the parking lot at Los Altos High School and the festival.

The Los Altos Village Association (LAVA), the only downtown association to stage an arts and wine festival without a professional production staff, organizes the festival. LAVA is also the only such association with entirely volunteer membership. Proceeds from the festival support nonprofit groups and help beautify, promote and energize the downtown Los Altos village.

The city of Los Altos boasts a long and rich history.

The native Ohlones, or “people of the West,” settled here for thousands of years before the arrival of the Europeans. In the late 1700s, Father Junipero Serra began the colonization of California for Spain by building a chain of missions from San Diego to Sonoma. In the attempt to “civilize” the Ohlones, the European intrusion resulted in the near eradication of the natives.

In the 1800s, most of the acreage that is now Los Altos and Los Altos Hills was included in two Mexican land grants: Rancho La Purisima Concepcion and Rancho San Antonio. The grazing lands of the large ranchos gradually were divided into smaller holdings of predominantly 40- to 100-acre parcels, planted in wheat and vineyards.

During that period, Sarah Winchester, widow of the inventor of the Winchester rifle, owned the 100 acres that later became the town site of Los Altos. The Peninsula Interurban Railway purchased her land in 1906.

One year later, the Southern Pacific Railroad bought the land for a right-of-way for its commuter trains to operate from San Francisco through the west valley and connect with a branch line from San Jose to Santa Cruz.

Paul Shoup, who later became Southern Pacific president and is known as the “Father of Los Altos,” helped define the future town when he joined others to form the Altos Land Co. In 1908, the company hosted a free barbeque to entice San Franciscans to ride the train down to the country and purchase lots (starting at $250) in the downtown triangle.

The Shoup family built several summer homes along University Avenue that still stand today.

In 2000, the Los Altos Town Crier named Paul Shoup “Los Altan of the Century.”

The town developed rather slowly, with hitching posts down Main Street, the first school class held above the grocery store and the post office located in the hardware store. The wheat fields and vineyards gave way to orchards of apricot, cherry, walnut, prune and plum trees.

With the mild climate, the train for transportation and the number of businesses increasing, families began locating in Los Altos in larger numbers.

Residents voted to incorporate in 1952 due to fear of intense development and the possible annexation of some lands by surrounding communities.

Shortly thereafter, in 1956, voters in Los Altos Hills approved their incorporation to protect their 1-acre zoning.

Today, Los Altos and Los Altos Hills serve as hometowns to many of the high-tech executives working in Silicon Valley.

The elements that blend to make the cities so desirable are their award-winning schools, small-town atmosphere, climate, volunteerism, community spirit and safety, cultural happenings and family-oriented annual events such as the Los Altos Arts & Wine Festival, the Kiwanis Pet Parade and the Festival of Lights Parade.
